Pastor’s Corner: Motherly Love

How many poems have been written about a mother’s love? I think the official poem counters lost count on that one. Mothers do treasure those poems scribbled with crayons, decorated with hearts and flowers and it is the thought that counts. To become a mother and have the opportunity to love your children and have your children love you is truly a gift from God I believe. Of course, all who become mothers don’t go on to become someone’s mom, or mama, or mommy. Yes, mothers give birth, but mommies, moms, and mamas are birthed as they mother their babies loving them in good times and bad, even as their children grow into adults. The commitment mothers make to love their children is for a lifetime. There is a Mother’s Day story I read recently is that of a young girl riding the school “wagon” home from school about 1925. She found a nickel under an oak tree and bought an apple at school. The following Sunday was Mother’s Day. The eight-year-old fully intended to give her mother the apple as a gift, but on the long bumpy ride home, she took first one little bite, then another, and another, until all that was left was the core. She gently wrapped the core in her handkerchief, gave it to her mom as a gift, and asked her to plant the seeds. An apple tree grew. Years later she told her mom the truth about the apple she had intended to give. They laughed and ate another apple from the tree. It was the thought that counted most and that grew with much love through the years. Put some thought into your giving and watch it grow. Happy Mother’s Day.

-Blessings, Pastor Vernon Herholdt
